My voyage on board Windward Bound was an unforgettable experience. Being able to live and work on a tall ship for an entire week with people I have never met before seemed daunting to begin with but in the end I wouldn't have done it any other way. The crew on board the Windward Bound played a huge role in making the experience so great. I think without such a helpful, smart, approachable and funny crew I would not have learnt as much about sailing and also about myself as I did. I gained skills that would help me sail a tall ship but more importantly I gained skills I can take away from the experience like working effectively as a team, communicating with others and showing empathy for others. I would strongly recommend this trip to anyone, no matter what their background is because I can guarantee you will not regret it and will be able to gain something great from the experience.
